

To The Government, Happy New Year.

It is stated that the least-important of the people ought to be valued, protected and represented by society, and so the governing authorities have a responsibility to support the indigenous Australians, and to give the lower wage earners appropriate housing, food, charges for utilities, and Australian made clothing, to protect the secondary industries in Australia. Why would the country want to lose the majority of the next generation to neglect?

From

Cheryl Peck.